MAX BROWN

Chairman
Events DC Board of Directors

When I walk down the streets of Washington DC, I can't help but marvel at what I see: new construction, restaurants, retailers and residents – plus new opportunities for the city to stand out among other global competitors.

This momentum is contagious – and we are very excited about it at Events DC. We have been working closely with Mayor Bowser and our partners, talking to the community and laying the foundation for innovative projects that will benefit everyone.

Among the projects in our portfolio is the long-awaited redevelopment of the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Stadium Campus. We are working closely with residents and stakeholders to ensure that the “future RFK” can be enjoyed by everyone. Plans will be unveiled later in 2018, so stay tuned!

I am especially thrilled to watch the Entertainment and Sports Arena (ESA) come to life. Located in Congress Heights, the ESA is poised to become a centerpiece of the neighborhood; the project will provide jobs, shopping and dining options, as well as a place for friends and family to gather. Like the RFK redevelopment effort, resident feedback and involvement have been integral to the ESA's success. We look forward to working with the community on programming, events and other opportunities in the years ahead.

Many thanks to our Board of Directors, President and Chief Executive Officer Greg O'Dell, the Events DC executive team and our staff and service partners for their tireless work and enthusiasm about our shared future.

It is my honor and pleasure to serve as Chairman during this extraordinary time in the Nation's Capital.

Max Brown, Chairman
Events DC Board of Directors
@EventsDCChair

At Events DC it is our goal to remain laser-focused on ensuring that we are making the right investments not only in our venues and assets – but for the future of our great city. These investments act as a catalyst for growth that will not only attract new visitors and residents to DC, but will also include innovative technology, new destinations within the city and job opportunities. These areas of growth don't happen on their own, but are often spurred by the aid of city action thanks to the leadership of Mayor Bowser and our dedicated District officials and the Board of Directors for Events DC.

Looking ahead into 2018, there is much on our horizon and Events DC will continue to play a core role in making the nation's capital one of the most buzzed about and electrifying places for both residents and visitors alike. In summing up 2016, we hosted, produced and supported more than 320 events, welcoming more than 1.8 million people. And through our events we created an estimated $415M+ in visitor spending for DC. Fiscal Year 2017 was another banner year, with 22 citywide meetings coming to Washington, DC and a projected direct spending of more than $600M for the city.

Acting as a catalyst for the community, we will continue to engage our neighborhoods and its residents across the District as we move forward with the Entertainment and Sports Arena project in Ward 8 with continued design evolutions and a topping off ceremony in 2018 – while simultaneously focusing our efforts on unveiling short-term programming for the 190-acre RFK Stadium-Armory Campus redevelopment project.

I am proud of what we have accomplished and what we continue to achieve with our partners and staff who work tirelessly to roll out the red carpet for our guests across the city. Through all of our efforts, we remain proud to serve as the District's official convention and sports authority and look forward to creating even more unforgettable experiences in 2018 and further positioning Washington, DC on a global stage.
